

Monica Armani

“I love the language of proportion of the '60s era and the sophisticated design that produced styles we continue to see today.”

Italian Designer Monica Armani was in New York City when she saw sunglasses in a store window that reminded her of Jackie O. “I loved the shape,” she says. “I was motivated to recapture the style that Jackie O made unforgettable in the '60s.” She infused the decade’s simple lines, scale, and glamour into the design for Allure O’. bebitalia.com
