

Monica Armani's New Outdoor Furniture Collection is Shaped After Blooming Flowers

Bringing the classic charm of the Belle Époque to modern spaces

By Mahima Sharma — July 15, 2026

Image: Flexform

In a beautiful partnership with the luxury Italian brand Flexform, renowned designer Monica Armani has created the Margheri outdoor collection. This furniture effortlessly transforms any patio, deck, or poolside into an elegant open-air living room that feels just as comfortable and inviting as an indoor space.

The collection draws deep inspiration from the Belle Époque, a historic European era famous for its art, slow living, and beautiful garden parties. Armani brings this nostalgic charm into the modern world by blending Art Nouveau-style curves with clean, contemporary lines.

The most striking visual element of the collection is its slender, curved stainless steel frame. The steel is carefully bent to form graceful, petal-like outlines that cradle the backrests and armrests, giving each piece a light, organic look that mimics blooming flowers.

While the design appears delicate and light, the entire collection is engineered to withstand the harshest weather. The sturdy stainless steel frames are finished with a specialized epoxy powder coating offered in nature-inspired shades, including forest green, wine red, terracotta, and sand. For a softer touch, hand-woven polypropylene cords wrap tightly around the backrests, providing both weather-resistant strength and a warm, tactile texture.

To ensure ultimate relaxation, the seating features thick, plush cushions filled with variable-density polyurethane foam and soft polyester fiber. These supportive cushions are wrapped in water-repellent, laminated fabric that stops moisture from building up inside.

Offering immense versatility, the Margheri outdoor collection includes modular and stand-alone sofas, a cozy daybed, and dining chairs. This flexibility allows you to easily customize your layout, whether you are furnishing a cozy city balcony or a sprawling garden estate.

Image: Flexform

Image: Flexform

